WARDEN LARKIN NEAR DEATH

"Little Hope Barring A Miraculous Rally"; Ryan Approaching Crisis

SACRAMENTO, (IP)—Warden Clarence A. Larkin, wounded critically in Sunday's rioting at Folsom Prison, was on the fringe of death at Sutter Hospital today, apparently with all hope gone that he would win out in his valiant three-day battle for life.

At another hospital across the city, Guard Captain William J. Ryan, was also in critical condition from convict knife wounds. Greatest obstacle in Ryan's path to recovery were three knife thrusts through his lungs.

Hospital attendants said Larkin's condition was "unchanged and very serious." Ryan "spent a restful night and his condition is unchanged," Mercy Hospital attaches said.

Dr. C. H. McDonald, who had been assisting Dr. Proctor W. Day, Folsom Prison physician, in attending Larkin commented:

"The Warden seems to be slipping away. It looks as though he will not make it."

His announcement marked the first time either physician had expressed definite belief the six-foot, four-inch Folsom Prison head might die.

He said a peritonitis infection developing from a knife wound which penetrated Larkin's liver and small intestine had so sapped the giant official's strength there was little hope barring a miraculous rally.

McDonald reported himself "very optimistic" that Ryan would recover.

The next 24 hours, he said, should bring him to a crisis and that his recovery would be constant when this point had been passed.

Five convicts who survived the riot in which two prisoners and a guard were killed, continued to show improvement at the prison meantime.

Wesley Eudy and Fred Barnes, most critically injured by rifle bullets and guards' leaden canes, appeared to be recovering. Robert Lee Cannon and Ed Davis, alleged ringleaders, were moved to solitary confinement cells from the prison hospital.

With Albert Kessell, the fifth survivor, they were indicted on murder charges yesterday by the county grand jury. The indictment charged them with slaying guard Harry E. Martin, who was buried in a Sacramento cemetery after Masonic and American Legion services yesterday. Convicts Clyde Stevens and Benny Kucharski died in the frustrated break.

MOVIE COOKING SCHOOL OPENS

Three-Day Event Closes On Friday Afternoon At Empire Theater

If you haven't attended at least one of the meetings of the county's first motion picture cooking school, which opened Wednesday at the Empire Theater, you have one more day in which to see the highly entertaining and very profitable picture, "The Bride Wakes Up."

A large audience, which almost filled the theater, attended the Wednesday opening and in addition to home-makers in the audience, there were present more than fifty members of the homemaking class at the county high school.

As we go to press the audience is gathering for the Thursday showing and another successful afternoon is promised.

"The Bride Wakes Up" is, of course, a "talkie," and those who saw the film on Wednesday report that it is almost a "smellie," too, for all that some of the delicious dishes seemed to lack when they were flashed on the screen, was the smell and the taste, and they looked so tempting one could almost "smell" them.

This, the county's first motion picture cooking school, is presented under the sponsorship of The Mountain Democrat. Doors of the Empire theater open at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and the picture is screened at 2 o'clock. There is no admission charge.

Friday will be the last day of the showing.

Mrs. Lottie Galleher was a business caller from Lotus on Thursday.

SKIERS TO MEET AT COURTHOUSE

Early Start On Preparations For Winter, Spring Program Urged By President Martin

Placerville Ski Club members are called for their first meeting of the year on Thursday night at the Superior Court room in the courthouse.

The opening meeting of the Fall season is called earlier this year than usual, owing to the large amount of work facing the club if it is to complete the improvement program outlined at meetings which marked the close of last season.

According to Adolph Martin, president of the club, principal business of the Thursday night meeting will be the completion of preparations for improving the club's ski hill near Twin Bridges.

Under plans advanced last Spring, the club hopes to complete a shelter house at the Twin Bridges hill this fall so that members and their guests may have a headquarters near the hill on those days when they go into the winter sports area.

It is hoped that a large attendance will be recorded at the meeting so that the course of the improvements may be thoroughly discussed and a plan of action for the near future adopted.

FIRST AID COURSE IN PLACERVILLE OPENS ON NOVEMBER 1

The Red Cross course in first aid, which has been in progress at Pollock Pines for several weeks, is nearing conclusion and preparations are being made to start the course in Placerville on Monday night, November 1st.

Instructor in the course, which will run for ten weeks on succeeding Monday nights, is E. W. Zueger. The instructor is anxious to contact especially representatives of groups which may be interested in taking the course and invites them to communicate with him at The Democrat office to the end that arrangements suitable to greatest number of interested parties may be made for conducting the course in Placerville.

50TH WEDDING DAY MARKED

Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Morgan Of Georgetown, Observe Their Golden Anniversary Sept. 22

Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Morgan, of Georgetown, are receiving the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends at having reached their fiftieth wedding anniversary, which they observed on Wednesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were married September 22, 1887, at St. James church, in Georgetown, before the Rev. Father P. J. Clyne, and have lived all their married life at Georgetown and vicinity.

Mrs. Morgan was born Mary Ann Brown, at Bottle Hill, about five miles north of Georgetown, on June 20th, 1861.

She was the daughter of George and Catherine Cowley Brown, who were born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, and came to America in 1849, settling first in Missouri. Mr. Brown came to California across the plains in 1850 and two years later Mrs. Brown joined him, making the trip across the Isthmus of Panama, thence to San Francisco and Georgetown. They settled at Bottle Hill, where Mr. Brown was interested in the Black Hawk and Roanoke mines.

Mr. Morgan's father and mother, Patrick and Mary Fitzpatrick Morgan, were born in the Parish of Mourne, County Down, Ireland and emigrated to Detroit in 1852. Peter Morgan was born at that city on May 20, 1858 and his parents moved to San Francisco in 1861 and to Georgia Slide a year later. Mr. Morgan's father followed mining until he retired a few years before his death in 1914.

Mary Brown attended the Georgia Slide public schools until she was about 17. Later she took up sewing until shortly before her marriage.

Mr. Morgan spent his boyhood at Georgia Slide and attended the school

"HALF A BUCK" WORTH MORE THAN 50 CENTS

"Half a buck" may be 50 cents to some people, but to A. C. Winkelman it is half of a successful deer hunt, and he's been robbed.

"Gus" had the two quarters in his truck on Main Street Wednesday night, left the truck for about ten minutes and returned to find that there's many a slip between the kill and the kettle.

"I was going to give half of the deer to the Legion for their buck stews and keep half of it for myself, so I guess the Legion has lost half a buck," commented Winkelman as he reported the theft.

TEACHERS GUESTS AT CHURCH DINNER

September Fellowship Meet Concludes With Program Of Songs And Talks

Teachers new to the community were honored guests Wednesday evening at the September fellowship dinner of the Federated church, served at the church parlors. An appropriate program of vocal and instrumental numbers and talks rounded out the evening.

The committee in charge had made preparations for 100 guests at the supper, despite forecasts of an attendance of about eighty, and when the number of those present grew to one hundred thirty, there was some slight inconvenience, but all joined in the spirit of the occasion and emergency arrangements assisted in the conclusion of a successful evening.

The program opened with a vocal solo by Don Hamilton, with Mrs. Hamilton as accompanist; and a piano solo by Mrs. Harold Miller. Bobby Hollenbeck and Harold Morehouse, Jr., played a violin duet with accompaniment by Allan Combrell.

A. W. Fuller, Mr. Gillett, Mrs. Lena Rantz and Mrs. Eva Carpenter offered a vocal quartet and Helen McBETH, Virgil Gearhart and Rance MacFarland made up a vocal trio. Maxine Miller was accompanist for the trio.

Mrs. Rantz and Mr. Gillett sang and duet following which Rev. Harold Morehouse spoke briefly in greeting to the teachers who are in the community for their first year.

Appropriate responses were made by Principal B. E. Larson, in behalf of the high school faculty, and District Superintendent John H. Palmer, in behalf of the grammar school faculty.

The fate of Lowell D. Hall, charged with incest, will go to the jury late Thursday afternoon.

Argument by Defense Attorney C. W. Pearson and the closing argument by District Attorney Henry S. Lyon and remained before the jury would get its instructions from the court and retire.

This is the second trial of the Hall case. In the earlier hearing, the jury reported itself hopelessly deadlocked after deliberations lasting twenty hours and was discharged.

On the present jury are Albert G. Springer, Jr., John C. Porter, W. F. Galleher, Frank J. Kipp, Rudolph Kunkig, C. E. Cribbs, L. W. Pendleton, U. C. Meyers, John A. Larsen, J. M. Strickland, F. H. Brown and Albert Engesser.

SCOUT SUPPORT DRIVE MAPPED

Enrollment In County Shows 33 Per Cent Increase; 6 Units Now Organized

El Dorado County will have the opportunity to contribute to the financial support of the Golden Empire Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, in a campaign which will be launched at a "kick-off" luncheon on Tuesday, October 5, at the regular luncheon of Placerville Lions.

Preparations for the campaign, for which John H. Palmer, superintendent of Placerville Grammar school, has accepted the chairmanship, were launched at two luncheons held the past week during which officers of the El Dorado County district disclosed that Boy Scout enrollment in the county has increased 33 per cent during the past year.

Six units are now functioning in the county and there is a petition for a seventh. The six units include troops at Smith Flat, Camino, Diamond Springs, two troops in Placerville and one Cub Scout pack in Placerville.

Informatively, officers of the county district point out that the Boy Scouts are chartered by Congress and they are the only organization so chartered. The books of the organization are regularly audited and an annual report on the organization is made to Congress and is published in the Congressional Record.

To facilitate administration, the Boy Scouts of America are divided into several regions, and a region consists of several Councils of which the Golden Empire Council, embracing four and one-half counties, with headquarters in Sacramento, is one.

For reasons of convenience in administration, the capital being the approximate geographical center of the council, the headquarters are in Sacramento.

The council is organized on a district basis, of which the El Dorado county district is one, and every sponsoring body of Scout troop is represented on the Council Board of directors and thus every Scout unit and leader is represented in the administration of the Council's business.

The six units of Scouting in the El Dorado County district represent about 5 per cent of the total Scout enrollment for the Golden Empire area. The Council's budget for 1937 is $31,878.86 and of this amount $17,519.73 has been raised and $5,274.59 has been pledged.

Forest Trail Crews Concluding Work

C. C. Herbert, forest road superintendent, was in the Echo Lake district on Wednesday preparing for the conclusion of the work of forest trail crews in that region.

There are two crews operating in Desolation Valley in addition to the crew working on the Echo Lake development.

THE WOODEN GUNThe LETTER BOX

We have this week from our esteemed friend Peter F. Morgan, of Georgetown, a letter inclosing an article which recently appeared in print concerning the erection of the county courthouse.

Mr. Morgan suggests that the article was taken from the Placerville Republican of about the time the courthouse was completed.

The letter continues:

"Marshall Hughes and myself are the only members of the Board of Supervisors who served at the time that the courthouse was built, that are now living and I want to say that I don't think that Marshall Hughes ever got the credit or honor due him."

"During the time we were building our courthouse, our county hospital burned down and Marshall was appointed building inspector at the hospital without any extra pay and he gave his entire time overseeing the building of the courthouse and the hospital, as he was Supervisor of the First District.

"My memory was poor and I don't remember whether the plate Marshall speaks of was ever cast or not. A great deal of credit is due Hon. George H. Thompson, our present Superior Judge. Before we accepted the plans and specifications we were besieged on all sides by architects and contractors trying to get the job. Mr. Thompson was our district attorney at that time and no one knows the value of his advice and services as well as the Board of Supervisors and the County Clerk. Architects and contractors attended every meeting of the Board with their attorneys, trying to tell us what we could do.

"Mr. Thompson would listen to their arguments. Then he would answer them, and then he would say to the Board—I remember as well as if it was yesterday—"Gentlemen, I am giving you the law in this case. Abide by the law and you will not have any trouble." And we took his advice, I am thankful to say.

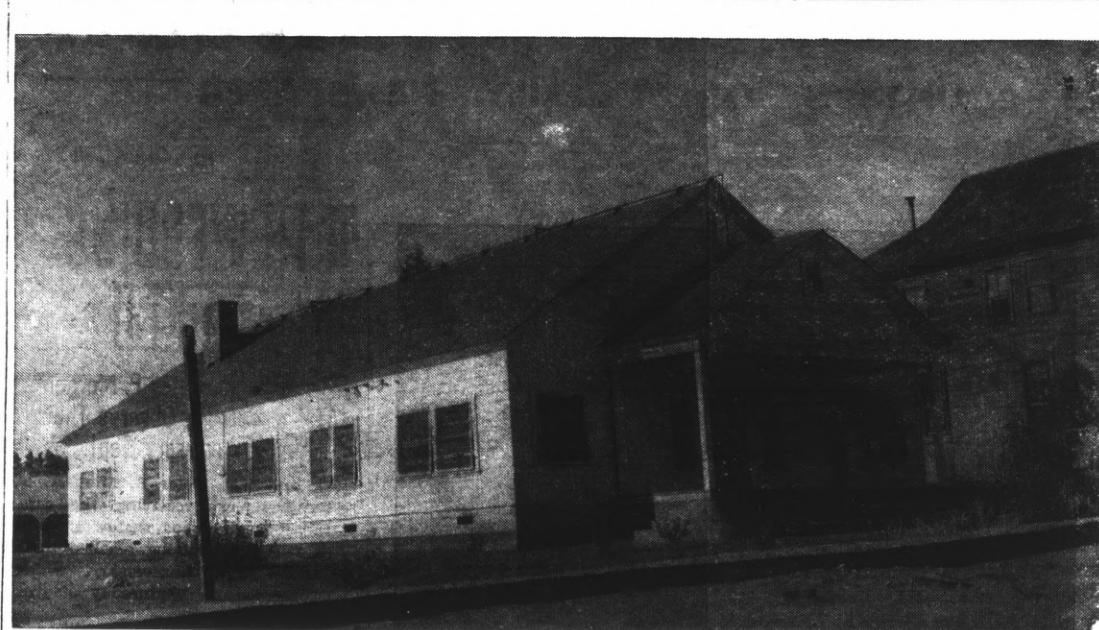

"I took John M. Curtis, the architect who designed the Placer County courthouse, through our courthouse and he said there is not a handsomer courthouse in the state. He asked the cost and I told him I thought it was about $131,000 and he said you couldn't build it in San Francisco or San Jose for $250,000."

The article which Mr. Morgan incloses is as follows:

"After sixteen trying months work, the Ransom Concrete Company will turn over to the Board of Supervisors the handsome county courthouse, erected on the site of the old courthouse that was destroyed by fire May 15, 1910. The building is a steel and stone structure, faced with glazed terra cotta made by Gladding McBean Company and cost this county $131,000.

"It is a fireproof structure, two stories and basement and contains the offices of the Superior Court, the district attorney, the Supervisors, County Clerk, Auditor, Recorder, Board of Education, Superintendent of Schools, Tax Collector, Sheriff, Treasurer, Assessor, Coroner, Surveyor and a large jail of twelve cells complete with sanitary plumbing.

"The Board of Supervisors will meet Monday afternoon to accept the building. It will be illuminated and thrown open in the evening for public inspection. The plans were drawn by Cuff & Diggs, of Sacramento, and the work was superintended by Clifford B.

WITHIN THE NEXT FEW WEEKS the offices of the Michigan-California Lumber Company at Camino will be moved to this new building, erected during the past summer on a site adjoining the building in which the company has had its headquarters for several years. Erection of the new office was a part of a building program carried on by the company during the past season.

Rushmer, of San Francisco.

"No other city the size of Placerville in this state has a more beautiful court house. There are larger buildings but none handsomer in this state. It is of classic design. The main corridors are finished in genuine marble and Scagliola and imitation stone. The main entrance has two solid bronze doors and the main stair case is of marble and iron.

"On the first floor, the Treasurer's office is furnished with modern burglar proof and fire proof vaults with time lock. Adjoining is the county clerk and auditor's office and then the recorder's office with room for the use of the abstract people. The sheriff's office has direct connection with the jail in the basement.

"The second floor contains the Superior Court room, which is of classic design with beautifully ornamented ceiling. The Judge's desk is at one end under an arch supported by two elegant Scagliola columns. Across the room is an oak railing which incloses the clerk's desk, the attorneys' tables, the jury box and a number of modern chairs furnishing seating room for witnesses and spectators. Leading directly from the courtroom is the Judge's chambers on one side and a spacious law library on the other.

"Connected with the law library is a suite of offices for the District Attorney. On this floor is also the Supervisors' room and also a room to be used as a committee room for the Supervisors and to be used as a jury room, fitted with beds folding back into the wall. Connected with this room is a lavatory with modern plumbing and fixtures.

"The Supervisors' room is elaborately fitted in solid oak wainscoting and ornamental plastered ceiling. This floor also contains a lavatory for ladies finished in white tiling.

"The building is heated by low pressure steam system operated from the furnace room in the basement and the oil-burning furnace is supplied from a 1,500-gallon tank underground in the rear. The finish of the entire building is fumed oak and the floors are also of oak. The lighting fixtures were designed by Fowler Mallitt, of San Francisco, and the current is supplied by the Western States Gas & Electric Company. (Now, the P. G. & E. Co.)

"The fixtures are of elaborate design in brass. The court room is lighted by chandeliers and magnificent bracket lamps. The building is crowned with a Spanish roof.

"Two granite buttresses at the front entrance are surmounted by imposing electroliers. The courthouse stands on a lot 120 feet square, facing Main Street with Bedford Avenue on the east, an alley on the west and runs back to Hangtown Creek. The size of the building is 60x100 feet. The front and rear are to be sodded up to the sidewalk. All the doors in the building are of steel in the highest style of sheet metal work, made by Dahlstrom Door Company, of New Jersey.

"This is the third courthouse occupied here since the county seat was

SONGS OF BIRDS CAPTURED FOR RECORDING BY RADIO SHORT WAVE

ITHACA, N. Y.—The first attempt to record the voices of any bird on film by means of radio has been pronounced successful by ornithologists at Cornell University, where the first records ever made of the voices of Atlantic petrels were tested.

Albert R. Brand of the Laboratory of Ornithology at Cornell, pioneer in bird-song recording, sought the petrels moved here from Coloma, where Marshall discovered gold.

"The building that was destroyed by fire May 15th, 1910, was built for a brewery but was being used as a lodging house when it was acquired by the county for a courthouse. It was a stone building at first but several additions had been made before the fire finally ended its picturesque history.

"The bronze tablet for the front of the building reads El Dorado County Court House, erected 1912. Board of Supervisors, Marshall Hughes, chairman, first district; J. N. Jones, Second District; E. W. Smith, third district; John J. Bayne, fourth district; Peter F. Morgan, fifth district. Cuff & Diggs, architects; Ransom Concrete Co., contractors; Clifford B. Rushmer, inspector."

on their own doorstep. With the aid of an assistant, Brand traveled in his sound truck to northern Maine, ferried across to the island of Grand Manan and arrived within six miles of Kent Island, where Bowdoin College maintains a biological laboratory.

A mile from the laboratory, among the rocks of the outer slope of the island, Brand found a colony of Leach's petrels in burrows which they dig in the loose soil.

Wishing to get an accurate record of this frog-like chorus of bird voices, but being unable to get the sound truck to the island, a mile of telephone wire was laid from a short-wave radio station which keeps the laboratory in touch with the rest of the world, to the petrel colony.

A sensitive microphone, with its parabolic reflector, was attached to the end of the telephone line.

When the petrels gave their croaking notes, the microphone picked up the songs and with the aid of an amplifier they were transmitted to the radio station, thence across the intervening six miles of the Bay of Fundy to the sound truck waiting on the island of Grand Manan.

MIAAMI, Fla., (IP)—The federal hurricane warning system warned vessels today of a tropical hurricane in the Atlantic, apparently moving north-north-west or north.

The system located the storm at 7 a.m. EST near latitude 26 degrees north, longitude 54 degrees west, approximately 1600 miles due east of Miami, the closest mainland point.

The hurricane apparently had veered from the northwest course it was following slowly last night, and seemed to have swung off on a path that lessened possible threats to the mainland.

Estimates of the damage ranged from $200,000 to $300,000. The fire was brought under control suddenly when firemen played ten truckloads of foamite, a chemical, on the leaping flames.

50TH WEDDING DAY MARKED

In Georgetown until April of 1875. In October of that year he leased one-quarter of the Brattle mine from G. H. Barklage and continued to lease and work the mine for eleven years.

"In 1887," says Mr. Morgan, "I had made up my mind that Mary Ann Brown was so near like the 'girl that married dear old dad,' that she would just suit me for a wife, and as she was willing we were married by Rev. Father P. J. Clyne in St. James' church in Georgetown on Sept. 22, 1887. As the saying goes, we have lived happily ever since."

Following their marriage, they were banqueted at the home of Mrs. Morgan's parents in Georgetown and serenaded by the Georgia Slide brass band, of which Mr. Morgan was a member. On the following Saturday evening, they were honored at a banquet at the home of Mr. Morgan's parents at Georgia Slide, and serenaded by the band.

The first child of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, Catherine, passed on at the age of fourteen years, of typhoid. They have five sons, Thomas, George, Peter, Joseph and Luke, all residents of Georgetown. George and Peter were in France for almost two years in the Army during the World War and although Joseph had enlisted in the Armistice was declared before he was sent overseas.

Soon after they were married, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan moved to Jones Hill, where E. W. Stanton, Thos. Keema, A. F. Keema and P. F. Morgan leased the Jones Hill gravel mine from Mr. Barklage for five years.

They moved to Georgia Slide and leased the Blue Rock mine until 1895 following which Mr. Morgan was ditch agent for the Loon Lake Water and Power Company for nine years.

Returning again to mining at Georgia Slide, Mr. Morgan was elected in 1910 to be Supervisor from the Fifth District and served the county and the district for sixteen years in this office.

During his tenure the new court house and a new county hospital were built and in 1916 the Morgan Grade, from Chile Bar to Kelsey, was built at a cost of $18,648. A short time afterward the reinforced concrete bridge at Chile Bar was built at a cost of $24,450.

When we say that Mr. and Mrs. Morgan are not retired, we do not mean that they have abandoned an active interest in public affairs, for their fiftieth wedding anniversary found them alert, maintaining a continuing interest in the community life and reaping the rewards they so richly deserve.

We join their other friends in sincere congratulations and good wishes.

WAITRESSES TRAINED TO BE MERCHANDISERS OF FOODS

ST. LOUIS (UP)—If John O'Meara, trainer of hotel employees, has his way, "hashers" will be a thing of the past and merchandisers of food will spring up in their place.

Next time you're in a restaurant, he says, ask the waitress what chicken a la king is. If she answers indifferently, "Old chicken and gravy and stuff mixed up," she's a hasher—unmistakably.

You're being served by a merchant of food if she answers courteously, "It's chicken cubed in rich cream gravy with pimentos, mangoes and mushrooms added. We're serving it today in flaky pastry shells."

O'Meara's first lesson for waitresses concerns the menu—where the food came from, how it is prepared and how to describe it in a way that will make the stomach tingle expectantly.

The course advances to the proper way to take an order and proceeds to kitchen vocabulary. Definitely out are such instructions to the cook as "another man wants to take a chance," for an order of hash, or "six in the grease," for a half-dozen fried oysters.

Mrs. Jessie Maynard returned Thursday afternoon from a two-week visit at Sacramento.

"ROSE COLORED GLASSES"
DISCARDED BY YOUTH,
SURVEY REVEALS

By CORRINNE HARDESTY
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)—The rosy dream of every school boy that he'll be President, or at least a millionaire, has been replaced, as a result of the depression, by the attitude that jobs are hard to get and money difficult to earn.

Helen K. McCormack, of the University of Chicago school of business, announced that 40 per cent of 1,900 students surveyed feared they would be unable to get jobs of any kind; 81 per cent expected to work hard for all the money they ever get, and 84 per cent rejected completely the idea that money is easy to earn.

Miss McCormack, who made the survey among Kansas city school children of high, medium and low income groups, said the attitude that money was hard to earn was common to all groups. More students in the high income group, than in the low, feared they would be unable to get jobs of any kind. More boys than girls entertained this fear.

"The fact that 57 per cent of the students rejected the idea that times are always hard for most persons," Miss McCormack pointed out, "indicates that this skepticism and fear are due to the children having lived through a severe economic depression. Thirty-two per cent thought times were always hard and 10 per cent said they did not know."

Although 85.2 per cent believed "every good citizen should be self-supporting" only 6.5 per cent said they would rather have money than anything else in life.

More than 20 per cent believed in "taking investment risks" and 5.7 per cent believed in burying their money to keep it safe.

Students from the high income group knew more about money than students from the other two groups, with boys exceeding girls in this knowledge. Those who earned, or received allowances, surpassed the others in knowledge of money problems.

"Hermit Cabin"
Built In '97

Illinois Native Was Devotee Of Hunting, Fishing; Spurned Confines Of Store Life

Hardly anyone who has visited Echo Lake has failed to make the short hike to a nearby eminence where stands the "Hermit's Cabin," nestled in a small vale and secluded in a cluster of pine trees.

But few know the story of Hamden Eldorado Cagwin, who built the cabin and lived there for twenty years; long enough to be remembered twenty-one years after his death as "The Hermit of Echo Lake."

Ralph King, concessionaire at Echo Lake, tells the story in a Christmas card he sent out last year, as follows: "Hamden Eldorado Cagwin was born in Illinois, now Placerville, by his mother, via the Isthmus route, in about the year 1852. His father had crossed the plains in 1850 and settled in Hangtown where he established himself as proprietor of a general mercantile store.

"Having been born at the time of the gold strike in California, Cagwin was given the name 'Eldorado.' The Cagwin family did not remain long in Hangtown, from which place they moved in turn to Markleeville, Virginia City and Carson City. In Carson City his father became proprietor of a stationery and sporting goods store, which was turned over to him in due course of time.

"He preferred life out of doors and seemed to devote only casual attention and interest to anything so confining as a business. Subsequently he sold the stationery store to his brother, George Cagwin, and a man by the name of Dorsey Noteware.

"After selling the store in Carson City he traveled by team and wagon to Oregon, and in 1891 settled on Puget Sound, where he acquired another store. Two years later he sold his holdings and again returned to Carson City from which place he conducted numerous and regular fishing trips to Hope Valley. He is known to have caught trout in great numbers, salting them in barrels for market and home use. His skill as a hunter and fisherman was recognized by all.

"In 1896 he built a cabin on the shore of Lake Tahoe at Stateline, where he practiced in earnest the profession of his liking, that of fishing and hunting for the market. So proficient was he that a Mr. Ramsey, who operated a general merchandise store at Bijou, a few miles distant, petitioned the State Legislature for a law to prevent in general the wholesale taking of fish from the streams of California, and in particular to curtail his activities in this respect.

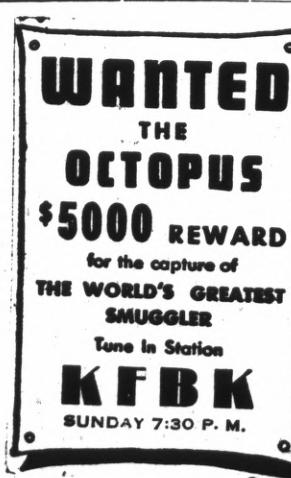

"Whether or not the opposition offered by his neighbor, Mr. Ramsey, had anything to do with his moving to Echo Lake one year later (1897), I can not say, but it seems reasonable to presume as much.

"He moved his boats and paraphernalia to Echo, and with the help of a nephew he built the cabin we know as the Hermit's Cabin. Except for the shingles, which were shipped in, it was constructed from the materials most conveniently at hand.

"Boards, discarded during the process of making replacements of the water company's flume, comprised the greatest source of materials. While at Echo Lake (1897-1916) he rented boats to fishing parties, and for a satisfactory consideration provided a limit of fish to those having no success.

"In addition to his boating business, he performed odd jobs for visitors and the few residents then living at Echo Lake. He worked for the water company as caretaker of the dam and flume, and during certain emergencies he carried the mail from Strawberry to Carson City and by his activities soon came to be associated in the minds of people as a definite part of Echo Lake.

"In 1916 a party of Indians who were fishing at Echo Lake found his dead body in his cabin. He now rests in the cemetery at Old Hangtown."

Hamden Eldorado Cagwin, remembered as "The Hermit of Echo Lake," Cagwin built and occupied the "hermit's cabin" at Echo Lake where he was found dead in 1916. This picture is from an old print in the possession of Mrs. J. C. Barrington.

WAR CENSOR REVEALS FRENCH BLUNDER; GERMANY'S PLANS FOR INVASION IN 1914 WERE KNOWN BUT DOUBTED UNTIL ACTUALLY IN OPERATION

By M. S. HANDLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, (UP)—The famous German Schlieffen Plan for the invasion of France only cost the Deuxieme Bureau (France's espionage and counter-espionage service) 60,000 pre-war francs. But the history of the episode, according to Paul Allard, French wartime censor, illustrates how blind the French general staff can be in face of a document of such capital importance.

Many years before the war a secret agent, Captain Lambing, received a letter signed with the pseudonym Vengeur containing a proposition from the author, who had just arrived from Germany, to sell detailed German military plans.

Lambing paid no attention to the letter. The bureau receives hundreds of such communications. But Vengeur persisted in his letter writing and finally Lambing was ordered to see him. Three meetings took place in Paris, Brussels and Nice. Each time Vengeur appeared with his head almost completely enveloped in bandages. He handed Lambing some convincing documents proving he was a high German officer attached to the German general staff. He told Lambing:

"I know I am committing an ignoble deed. But my chiefs have conducted themselves in a still more ignoble manner toward me. That is why I want to avenge myself."

As Allard remarks, this officer was taking terrible revenge, because he handed over the Schlieffen Plan which the Germans partly used in 1914.

But Allard thought: Alas! It was only a sword thrust in the water because, as you know, our mobilization Plan 17 took no account of the Schlieffen Plan.

The Deuxieme Bureau sent mission after mission to verify the plan in Germany. Strategic roads, railway platforms, everything reported by the missions confirmed the plans, but doubts still subsisted . . . Suffering from acute suspicion, the secret service and General staff still doubted until the Germans actually put the plan into action in 1914.

MISSING YACHT, ENDEAVOR, LOCATED 750 MILES OFF AZORES

LONDON, (UP)—The racing yacht Endeavor I, missing for 10 days on a voyage from the United States to England, has been found after a storm tossed voyage which carried her far south of the Azores, the authoritative Lloyd's shipping news service reported today.

Details were lacking, but the yacht's position was given as latitude 32 north longitude 3 west, which would be about 750 miles southwest of Ponta Delgada, Azores, and 1750 miles from Long Island.

Bread Price Questioned By Consumer Council

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Retail bread prices have reached the highest level in seven years despite lower ingredient costs, D. E. Montgomery, of the Consumer's Council of the A.A.A. announced today.

Current retail prices are 5 per cent above those for the first half of 1935, but wholesale costs to the baker are lower than a year ago, Montgomery said.
